

PRODUCE SAFETY FIELD DAY

ONE ART COMMUNITY CENTER
PHILADELPHIA, PA
9AM-5 PM ON SATURDAY JULY 15TH

Join us at One Art Community Center in Philadelphia for an interactive workshop learning from a team of community based Produce Safety Educators. Laquanda Dobson, Dr. Melvina Brown and Lindsay Gilmour bring years of experiencing in teaching and farming to help answer questions specific to your operation and give real world examples of some of the best practices in produce safety!

This workshop is helpful to all farmers and gardeners but especially those who are interested in selling produce to the public or who are looking to create a food safety plan and/or obtain GAP Certification.

Please email aleya@caic.org or hoshea@nesawg.org for more details!

AFTER LUNCH (PROVIDED) THERE WILL BE A MAPJAM SESSION FACILITATED BY NESAWG!!!

We are excited for you to join NESAWG's first in-person MapJam session! You can come for the full day or just come in the afternoon to vision with community members! We invite participants to a discussion focusing on:

- How can we leverage our knowledge, our skills and our networks to create long-term farm and food systems change?
- How can we create a system that is regenerative, replicable, and scalable?
- How can we support each other's work as we build a food and farm system for all?

During this session, we will also map local organizations and assets; share needs and resources; and have conversations about movement building. The data from this session will be mapped out and shared publicly as a resource for the Northeast region. This will be a great opportunity to network and build new relationships with Philly folks!
